Blairmore Council Is Back to Business

Councillor Putnam Endeavors To Unearth Imaginary Evils

The number of ratepayers who occupied comfortable positions within the walls of the council chamber last night brought back to our memories the good old days of Mayor Lyon's regime, when the curious dreams of our ratepayers would tell them that something radically wrong was being transacted by those in charge of municipal affairs of the Town of Blairmore. For more than a year a distinct indifference has been manifested by the ratepayers as a whole in municipal affairs. Not even at the time for the annual nomination and election of councillors and trustees would any of them come forward to fill the vacancies and thus avoid the further expense of a by-election.

Last night some members of the council arrived on the scene with fire in their eyes, and that fire reflected its influence to the spectators in a small measure.

The meeting opened on time, with Mayor Sinclair and Councillors Dutil, Beebe, Rosse, Putnam and Bartlett, and the secretary-treasurer in attendance.

The minutes of the previous meeting were approved, and communications from W. A. Henderson Co., The Salvation Army and West Canadian Collieries Co. were received and filed.

The following accounts were read: Blairmore Hardware Co. $12.10; J. Handley $5.00, Blairmore Enterprise $20.70 and James Bonner $16.50.

Re Handley's account, Councillor Putnam desired that before any relief should be handed out by the relief committee, that important body should confer with the councillors at a regular meeting, which occurs once in two weeks or once in three. In other words the relief committee was simply an ornament to be advised by members of the other committees. After some discussion, the following resolution was put in effect: "That any relief handed out be secured on the best security possible." Here ended the first lesson.

Re Blairmore Hardware Co.'s account, Councillor Putnam asked who ordered the stove, etc., and for what purpose was it ordered. He was told that the stove and fixtures were secured for the police department adjoining the council chamber. This department until quite recently, although being rented from W. A. Beebe by the town, had been laying idle, and but a few months ago the council decided to convert the quarters into a court-room and jail, whereupon a modern cage was installed for the accommodation of those who failed to see the error of their ways. During the regime of H. E. Lyon as mayor these quarters were allotted to J. R. Irwin, the then chief of police, for his free use as police quarters. Mr. Irwin, who like many others at that time, was intensely interested in the town's welfare, undertook to rent the quarters to an outsider and pocketed therefrom the equivalent of room rent in a hotel for several months. Some of those who watched the proceedings at that time, were present last night to coach their able spokesman to find fault in the work of the present council. In spite of the fact that these quarters are liable to be used at any time for police-court sittings and that the climate at this season of the year is slightly different from that of midsummer, Mr. Putnam failed to see the necessity of a stove or fuel or bed-blankets or even the cage, and objected to the bill in question on the grounds that the articles were not necessary and because a request for their supply had not been made to a regular meeting of the council. Mr. Putnam did not like the idea of the Chief of Police occupying or making use of the police quarters without being granted written authority from the council. In this connection he was asked why the secretary-treasurer was not given written permission to use the town office for his duties. Considerable discussion ensued, after which the bill was voted on, all but Mr. Putnam declaring themselves in favor of this appropriation. Here ended the second lesson.

Re account of James Bonner for certain fixtures erected in the town office. Councillor Beebe desired to know who ordered the work done. Mayor Sinclair informed Mr. Beebe that he was responsible. Mr. Beebe next wanted to know what right the Mayor had in undertaking anything of the sort without consulting the chairman of the Works and Property Committee. He could not see the necessity of such fixtures, except for the comfort of a secretary and did not believe in the mayor or secretary taking upon themselves to do what the town could not afford to pay for. The mayor and secretary explained that because of certain individuals in the town who had the habit of making the town office their lodging place, and thus interfering with the work of the secretary, such fixtures would accomplish much where other broad hints had no effect. The secretary has books to look after, and at the present time is busy getting out the tax enforcement return, and his quarters should not be made the lounging place for individuals who have a leisure hour at their disposal and who have no business to transact with the secretary. Following the necessary explanation, the account was duly passed. This third lesson was followed by an illustrative song from Councillor Rosse to this tune: "If I—, you could— me a thousand miles!"

Re Blairmore Enterprise account, Councillor Putnam regretted that the town had not another newspaper, otherwise he would avail of the opportunity to "rap our knuckles."

Councillor Dutil, as chairman of the Finance Committee, reported the result of an interview with the manager of the Union Bank re finances for the ensuing year.

Councillor Putnam, on behalf of the waterworks committee, asked the council re the best means of getting after delinquent water consumers, or collecting the waterworks' revenue. He did not like the idea of any Tom, Dick or Harry collecting water taxes without authority from the council, and would like the council to put through a resolution authorizing the secretary-treasurer to make a monthly house-to-house collection canvas. Members of the council declared themselves as being opposed to the secretary absenting himself from the town office during office hours, and on motion the Chief of Police was instructed to look after collections.

Dutil-Bartlett—That By-Law 19, appointing officials for 1916, be read a first time. On motion the by-law received its three readings and was finally passed with appointments as follows:

W. A. Henderson Co., as auditors, at $150.00 per annum.
Dr. MacDonald, as medical health officer, at $200 per annum.

W. Joyce, as secretary-treasurer, at $90 per month.

A. McLeod, as chief of police, with duties as defined at a recent meeting, with a salary of $60 per month and commission on all licenses collected by him.

Councillor Putnam suggested that a solicitor be appointed, at a nominal retaining fee, but as the legal fraternity was so well represented at this meeting he would not recommend any particular solicitor. This subject

Give the Girl A Chance

A Plea for a Square Deal for the Girl

I don't believe in this education for girls—it takes them out of the home and right off the farm. Look at our boys—we need them here, but there's rather a lot of teaching.

The doctor looked at me. "Really, he was the chairman of the high school board in the little town which was the business, educational and social centre of the surrounding community, and it was not the first time he had heard this very same complaint from the men on those farms. He inquired casually:

"What does she get?"

Four hundred dollars a year—that's what tickles her," said her father, half proudly.

"Why don't you offer her that to stay at home?"

"Doctor! Why it's out of the question; I can't afford it. The farm income wouldn't stand it."

"Give her a share in the farm, then. Make her a business partner," suggested the doctor.

"There are only two hundred acres, and I have to set up the two boys—these days. And I have to look out for myself."

A queer little smile came on the doctor's face.

"Then why should you complain because she wants to look out for herself? She finds no opportunity on the farm. On the other hand she finds her work here considered to be worth only her board and clothes. On the other, she finds her share worth a hundred dollars a year to a community that treats her as a child."

"You are giving your girl a square deal?"

"The other man hitched a little uneasily.

"Don't know as I am—never thought of it that way."

Soon after this conversation took place in the reception room of a boarding house a daughter of the same community sat talking to a visitor from home.

"You have a nice position here now, hey?"

"Yes, I have a good position—like I do, too. But—quickly—I don't propose to send all my life's earnings to a city office—it's back to the farm for me!"

Her caller looked her surprise.

"You see, I with a little flush of pride, "I'm going to marry the nicest young farmer I've seen, and I'll have my own horse and carriage, maybe my own runabout, and I'll be in my own house and be a partner in my own business firm instead of an employee in a big city office."

"I believe with all my heart, in peace, if peace can be obtained on terms commensurate with the rights of the citizen. For five years they have succeeded in taking peace from the world with mean hypocrisy."

Liquor Falsehoods

Prohibition Laws Prove to be a Great Blessing to the Masses

The public should be warned of the misrepresentation and falsehoods published by the liquor interests for the purpose of casting doubt upon the value of prohibition of the liquor traffic. They are fighting a desperate rear guard fight in defence of what they consider their right to make easy money by the sale of what is now acknowledged the world over to be a very harmful drug.

They seem to have a regular organization of writers whose business it is to cast discredit upon prohibition or any other restraint of their business. Their principal asset is their prohibition in a failure in some distant place. They give figures that seem fair, but they do not know the facts. For instance at one time Prince Edward Island, our only province that has prohibition, had more insane than any other province. For various reasons Prince Edward Island has attracted a number of patients from outside the island and they would think it a great reduction in crime and drunkenness if they were to be removed from the island.

They are careful not to tell that some wet provinces have nearly four times as many crimes as our dry province, yet the last census report shows that to be the fact. In fact, drunkenness and crime are most absent in Prince Edward Island.

They used to give figures to show that the number of insane in Maine has as much drunkenness as before prohibition, but they carefully make it appear that the number of insane in Maine has been reduced to one-tenth of what it was before prohibition.

Developing the West

A Good Time to Get More Settlers From the U.S.

Senator Peter Jansen, of Nebraska, was in Toronto a few days ago on one of his periodic trips to Canada, where he is interested in various enterprises. He has taken an active interest in the development of western Canada for over 15 years, and has been instrumental in getting large numbers of United States settlers to the prairies of Saskatchewan. When he was in the United States, he was a reporter for the World, Senator Jansen said.

"What places most is the fact that during a recent trip among those settlers, they did not bring along one who was dissatisfied with the country. In fact, I think that this is the opportune time for Western Canada to acquire some more good settlers from the United States. Our people are desirable because they generally bring with them, not only money, but also the experience and start at once farming in a successful manner."

"There is no reason," the senator continued, "why people from the United States should not come to Canada. The climate is the same, our laws are the same, and our country is the same, and they could make the same kind of money as they can in the United States. The line between the two countries is a trading line, and they can trade with both countries."

Mr. Jansen said he was glad to see that the department of the interior of the United States had sent out the papers of the United States, telling the people about the free homesteads in the United States.

All Eyes On Gary

Cutting Down School Expenses and Boosting School Efficiency

(Contributed by Norman F. Black, M.A., D.Pad., Regina.)

"There wasn't any town of Gary, Indiana, eight years ago. Now it is a city of thirty or forty thousand. The United States Steel Corporation needed it so it just set up work and made it. To make the new city which they required as the home of the most complete and up-to-date steel works west of Pittsburgh, they employed civil engineers and electrical engineers and men of other engineers. Among them was an educational engineer. It was his job to create a school system that would be as complete and up-to-date as the steel works, and like them, business-like and economical."

He did the job.

His name is Wirt; William A. Wirt. And being his, that is the name of the man upon whom the eyes of the great army of folk that care for economy and efficiency in school matters are just now turned. William A. Wirt has worked out and is working out business-like methods of educational reform that are going to effect states and provinces far and wide.

How he has done this so cheaply and effectively cannot be explained in a few lines. He has applied the same principles modern business methods to eliminate waste. What he has done is to make the school run like a business. He has applied the same principles modern business methods to eliminate waste. What he has done is to make the school run like a business.

Wirt made the startling discovery that no child can be in more than one place at a time. He has applied the same principles modern business methods to eliminate waste. What he has done is to make the school run like a business.

Accordingly he arranged a timetable that would keep each and every one of these places occupied all day long.

Ignorance Unashamed

Has Our School System Reached the Highest Point of Efficiency?

Is there not too much truth in the following editorial remarks in the Toronto press, on the education of children now receive at a public school?

"The questions were written on the blackboard at Macdonald Institute on a recent morning, and the 21 girls of the class were required to write down their answers and hand them in. The first question named 17 famous books or poems and required the names of the authors. The second asked for a short description of the location of Sudbury, Prince Rupert, Esquimaut, Vancouver, Gulliver and Lemberg. The third read as follows: Name the premier of any six of the provinces of Canada."

"The average value of the answers was 30 per cent for the first, 21 per cent for the second, and almost nothing for the third. No one knew the position of Lemberg or Gulliver. One-half of the class gave no answer to the third question. The names of the premier of any six of the provinces of Canada."

An Old Country farmer lost his barn last year by fire. They said at the time that he was insured for more than the building was worth, and that he was not sorry to see the old shed destroyed. Unfortunately for his hopes, however, the insurance people took advantage of an option in their policy and replaced the barn instead of giving him the money—greatly to his disgust. Not long afterwards the traveling agent of a life insurance company came into the village, and, among others, solicited the old man to effect an insurance on his life. "No, no!" said the farmer;
"I should feel as if I were a-going to die tomorrow." "Well," said the agent, facetiously, "if that is the case, take the assurance on your wife." "You don't catch me there, either," chuckled the old man. "I know the way of you insurance chaps; you would just go and give me another old jade even worse than the first."
